MASTER'S IN SPEECH LANGUAGE PATHOLOGY

Dear Prospective Student,

Thank you for reaching out to learn more about our Speech-Language Pathology program at TTI!

Speech-language pathology is an incredibly rewarding field with many exciting career opportunities. Our program's specialized curriculum blends courses taught by highly experienced professors with hands-on fieldwork. This approach gives you both the knowledge and real-world experience you need for a successful career. You'll learn how to help people communicate better and improve their quality of life.

TTI's speech program offers a unique dual enrollment opportunity. This means that when students are accepted into the program, they are admitted to both the bachelor's and master's degree programs right from the start of their undergraduate studies.

TTI is known for its warm and supportive environment. Our faculty is here to guide you through your degree, certification, and beyond!

We can't wait for you to join the TTI family!

What Is a Speech Language Pathologist?

Careers in Speech Language Pathology

A speech therapist, also known as a speech-language pathologist (SLP), is a healthcare professional who evaluates, diagnoses, and treats patients with speech, language, communication, and swallowing disorders.

What You'll Learn

TTI's Speech Therapy program equips you with the knowledge and hands-on skills needed for a successful and rewarding career in speech-language pathology.

Our comprehensive curriculum combines coursework with field experience, focusing on assessment and intervention techniques with real-world applications. You'll study key topics such as speech and language development, voice and speech production, audiology, and the neurological foundations of communication.

Schools

Support school-aged children with speech and language challenges, including fluency and articulation disorders, developmental delays, autism, hearing impairments, and voice or communication disorders.

Health Care

Treat children, adults, elderly, and special needs patients with a variety of medical conditions including feeding and swallowing disorders, cleft lip or palate, traumatic brain injuries, and respiratory disorders.

Classes

Learn from experienced professors who are passionate about sharing their expertise. Our bachelor's degree courses are offered live online, while master's degree courses are available live online or in person, depending on the program. All classes are scheduled on Sundays and weekday evenings, providing exceptional flexibility for your busy life.

Fieldwork

Gain hands-on experience with 375 clinical hours at three diverse clinical placements as you work toward your master's degree, ensuring you graduate with practical, real-world skills

Private Practice

Offer personalized, one-on-one therapy to clients in a private setting. Private practice allows for a flexible schedule and the opportunity to specialize in specific disorders or age groups.

Early Intervention

Work with infants and toddlers (ages 0-3) who have developmental delays, helping them build essential speech and language skills during their critical early years.

Academia

Train future speech-language pathologists and contribute to the field through research, developing new treatment methods and evaluation techniques.

Telehealth

Provide speech therapy services remotely, reaching clients in underserved or remote areas. Telehealth offers flexibility and the ability to work from home while making a meaningful impact.
